

Hi I am SaeHee Park, a UX researcher & designer

a bit about me

Hi there. My name is SaeHee, I am an aspiring UX researcher and designer, nearing the end of the UX certification program at UCLA along with UCLAx Frontend Web Development Bootcamp course. Throughout the program, I have discovered my passion for designing and reenvisioning experiences with empathy.

Previously, I have worked in healthcare after studying child development and education, but have always been intrigued by the design field as well as coding.

One day- I hope to utilize my knowledge and experience to build products that benefit hospitalized children and their families.
